STOKES THIRD TRIAL.

Opening Legal Tactics of the Defence.

Objection Raised and Argued on the Legality of the Jury Panel Summoned for the Term.

Judge Davis Will Decide the Point To-Day.

STOKES' APPEARANCE IN COURT.

The opening proceedings in the third trial of Edward S. Stokes, for the shooting of Colone, James Pisk, Jr., at the Grand Central Hotel, in January, 1872, were held yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judge Davis presiding. So long a time has clapsed since the fatal shooting, and which caused such public excitement then. and the fact that Stokes has already been twice tried for the offence, and that all the facts and cir. cumstances connecting the victim and the prisoner in their relationships with the third principal actor in the tragedy, and which ultimately led to the death of Fisk, have been elicited on the two former trials, there was a very perceptible falling off in the crowds about the court room anxious to see the prisoner and witness the proceedings that marked the opening of the previous trials. No doubt the dry work of empaneling a jury had a good deal to do with this apparent lack of interest, d when the case is fairly started the same anxious crowds will besiege the court room. The result, however, to Stokes, in a legitimate defence and the vindication of the law, are just as momentous as they ever were, and the public will await with interest, though without marked excitement, the termina tion of the third trial which the laws have afforded the prisoner to establish a defence that will save him from the fate which a second verdict of guilty would entail. The action taken by Stokes' able ounsel yesterday might indicate a desire on the part of Stokes, his friends and his counsel to throw fresh obstructions in the way of a speedy trial at this time. But this, in fact, is not the case. Mr. Tremain assured the Court that the defence was ANXIOUS TO GO TO TRIAL AT ONCE, but that there was so much of vital interest to the defendant in the testimony of Dr. Tripler, who was the first to treat the deceased medically after receiving the fatal wound, that he should claim from the Court the right, in the absence from the country of Dr. Tripler, to have his testimony given on the first trial put in for the desence by having it read from the stenographers' notes. Mr. Tremain re-ferred in this connection to late rulings of the judges in England, where malpractice on the part of medical men was admitted on trials of murder, and in which, the malpractice having een proved, the defendant was acquitted. In the case of Dr. White, Fisk's family physician, who was temporarily absent from the city, Judge Davis said that if Dr. White did not return and be procurable as a witness before the defence was concluded, he would allow his testimony to be read and admitted in evidence.

In the objection raised as to the summoning of the panel of jurors to serve during the presat term in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, the first case on the calendar being Stokes', Mr. ot that any of the jurors put on the panel were dis qualified in any way, but that an evident partiality ad been shown for the service of bankers, brokers, nerchants and clerks, to the prejudice of the de fendant in the exclusion from the panel of journeymen mechanics, artisans and laborers, respectable citizens qualified to perform jury service. Counsel also alleged special informalities in the drawing of the panel. On this point Judge Davis drawing of the panel. On this point Judge Davis said that although the only point of the plea was that admitted by the District Attorney, which he was bound to consider, and while, notwithstanding his mind was quite cear on that subject, yet he would be sorry that the any omission of his the result of the trial might become nugatory. He would take time to more fully consider it and give his decision on the reassembling of the Court this morning. OPENING PROCEEDINGS.

At an early hour the prisoner was conducted from his cell in the Tombs and seated in a close carriage. Sheriff Brennan and his deputy, Snields, entered the coach with Stokes, and the trio were driven rapidly to the Court House. Stokes was kept in an ante-room until the arrival of His Honor, when he entered the larger room and was placed at the bar, in his oid place.

HIS PERSONAL APPEARANCE
has undergone very little perceptible alteration since his last trial. He looks somewhat paler, but that may be attributed to a recent severe attack of bihousness, which attack preciuded his appearing on Monday last, the day upon which the cause was first called. He was attired in the same outward garments as formerly, and he altogether looked the same. He sate easy and calmiy behind his triumvirate of counsel and spoke but little. His counsel are the same as on the second trial—Messrs. Lyman Tremain, J. P. Dos Passos and Mr. Brainerd.

The father, mother and sister of Stokes were present throughout the day.

The father, mother and sister of Stokes were present throughout the day.

Counsel for the People—District Attorney Phelps and his assistants, Messrs. Lyons and Russell—were also in their places.

Mr. Sparks, Clerk of the Court, then proceeded to call the panel of jurors. Forty-four jurors answered to their names, and others subsequently reported themselves present. The absentees were fined $250 each, unless they excused themselves on Friday.

themselves present. The absentees were fined $250 each, unless they excused themselves on Friday.

Mr. Tremain, rising, said that he regretted THE DEFENCE WAS NOT READY.

Be would have to ask an adjournment, unless the District Attorney would consent to the reading of certain evidence taken on previous trials. Dr. Tripler was a witness on the first trial. He and Dr. Fisher were the physicians having charge of the case of Mr. Fisk and wore called by the prosecution on that trial. Dr. White was the family physician of Mr. Fisk; he, too, was a witness for the people on that first trial. Immediately on sure notice of the moving of this trial they got out their subpenas. They found that Dr. Tripler had gone to Europe; Dr. White, a physician in active practice, had, by a singular coincidence, gone away for a month. He was informed that, though at the last trial Dr. Tripler was reported to have gone to South America, he was in the court at the time of the inst sentence. The defence much preferred to have these witnesses on the stand, but so anxious were they to go on that they would consent to the reading of their evidence; otherwise they must ask an adjournment.

Mr. Brainerd then read affidavits to show that ak an adjournment.

Mr. Brainerd then read affidavits to show that Dr. Tripler was reported to be in China, that they had had difficulty in finding Dr. Fisher and that Dr. White was in Pennsyivania,

Mr. Phelps in reply said that it was only within a day or two that he had learned that these two witnesses were considered material by the defence. They had never been summoned by the defence. They had never been summoned by the defence, and he could not see how, on this turd trial, they could be considered material.

Mr. Tremain said that on the first trial the prosecution had felt it necessary to prove all the surroundings of the death, so as to exclude the idea of death from any cause except the builet wound, as was clearly its duty. That offered the defence the opportunity of showing that death occurred from the injection of morphine. On the second trial, so confident was the prisoner in the strength of his deience of that he directed his counsel not to raise this issue, and though he, as counsel, thought it a mistake, he yielded to the confidence of the prisoner and his friends, but only after taking their written instructions. The disastrous result of that concession was known to every one, and he thought it should not be made again.

The Court—Why cannot Dr. Fisher state the material facts?

Mr. Phelps here recounted the number of medical men who had been in attendance on Fisk, and said he could flot see how Dr. Tripler, who he understood had left the country for good, could be of use.

Mr. Tremain ropled that the testimony of Dr. Mr. Brainerd then read affidavits to show that said be could not see how Dr. Tripler, who heenderstood had left the country for good, could be of use.

Mr. Tremain roplied that the testimony of Dr.
Tripler covered a period at the very beginning of Fisk's treatment which no other witness covered, ancluding the giving of stimuants and the probing with a broken probe.

The Court overruled the motion, holding that as to Dr. Tripler the prisoner should have taken earlier steps to secure his testimony, and as to Dr.
White he was probably not intentionally absent, and, should he not return and his evidence become material, it could be read.

CHALLENGE TO THE ARRAY.

Mr. Tremaine then presented a challenge to the array—first, that the punel of jurors was drawn,
not from the whole number of qualified petit jurors, amounting to between twenty and thirty thousand, but from a special list placed in the box September 16, 1872, numbering 2,295; second, that the ballots were not presented by the County Clerk, as provided by law, but by the County Clerk, as provided by law, but by the County Clerk, as provided by law, but by the County Clerk, as nac picked out from the restricted list special classes of bankers, brokers, etc., to the exclusion of mechanics, artisans, &c.

Mr. Phelps asked time to decide his course on this challenge, and the Court gave him until one o'clock to do so.

THE COURT REASEMBLES.

A little after one o'clock the Court reassembled and Mr. Phelps said that while he was satisfied that the facts set forth were not true, yet to avoid any long investigation into merely collateral facts, he should simply demur to it.

Mr. Phelps proceeded to argue that the CHALLENGE WAS DEFECTIVE, in that it did not aver that there was any other list of petit jurors when the list of 2,295 was placed on file, though it did aver there was any other list one on file. The law authorized and directed him to make a list each year and thereafter prepare a list of those omitted from time to time and return them to the County Clerk to be added to the box. He had to examine the qualifications of jurors, and as fast as he found any fit, to prepare a list of them and add them. There was no allegation that any one of these jurors on the list was an improper person to be a juror. The purpose of this whole statute was not to secure a fair distribution of jury duty. It was directory, and the only party to be injured or who could complain, was the People. He cited the anti-Mason case of the People against Jewett, that the mere exclusion of unexceptionable persons from this panel, provided no improper person was placed on it, was not groon of improper person was placed on it, was not groon of one fallenge to the array, and a later case to show that the statute was merely directory, and in the absence of any allegation of fraud the omission of any formality was not good ground to quash the array.

Mr. Tremain, in reply, said that the object of the challenge was to present this question; that after the commissioner of Jurors had completed his examination and prepared his list of the great body of petit jurors, had completed his examination and prepared his list of the gr

Mr. Phelps objected to the receiving of this paper.

Judge Davis said that it was evident that the defeace intended to conduct their side of the case fairly and he thought it no more than fair to give them all the facilities possible.

Mr. Phelps demurred to the challenge, and thereupon the court adjourned till hall-past ten o'clock this morning, when the demurrer will be afgued.

AFTER THE COURT ADJOURÉED there was quite an animated discussion between Mr. Tremain and Mr. Douglas Taylor, Commissioner of Jurors, on the subject of preparing panels from which to select jurors.

Mr. Tremain confessed himself greatly mystified as to the process pursued, though his mind was clear as to the status applying to the case.

Mr. Taylor undertook to explain away this mysery, and that no possible blame could be attached to him.

to him.

Mr. Tremain said that he would not undertake to say who was to biame; but this fact was clear that, while a set of the greatest scallawags to be found in the city, Tweed's fugleman in fact, had been selected for the Tweed jury, there was offered for the trial of Stokes a panel, every man upon which would hang a man for carrying a pistol in self-delence.
